this striking study of the meaning and use of the major spatial prepositions in french provides valuable insight into how the human mind organizes spatial relationships most previous analyses of spatial prepositions have assumed that their semantic properties can be adequately explained by familiar logical and geometrical concepts thus the standard view of the preposition in as it appears in the sentence the ball is in the bag postulates that it refers to the geometrical relation of inclusion this paradigm however falters when faced with the contrast in acceptability between sentences such as the bulb is in the socket and the bottle is in the cap the force exerted by the landmark a conceptually fixed object on the target a moveable object is crucial in this difference the functional notion of containment seems more operational in the use of the preposition in than inclusion that is what are taken to be the landmark and the target depend greatly on the functions these objects serve in the human scheme this offers important clues to otherwise problematic linguistic quirks such as why one sleeps in one's bed while one is said to lie on one's deathbed while many of the examples apply in english as well as french there are some noteworthy differences in french one sits on a chair but in a couch vandeloise convincingly argues that it is precisely this subjective element which makes a standard geometrical account unfeasible

this book analyses noah webster s and samuel johnson s use of verbal examples in their dictionaries as a means of giving guidance on word usage the author s major interest lies in elucidating how uniquely webster who was originally a grammarian made use of verbal examples in order to achieve this purpose the author provides chapters based on types of entry words in their functional contexts johnson s selection of sources of citations and the frequency of his quoting citations tended to vary strongly according to the type of entry word he also supplied invented examples rather than citations when he thought it especially necessary to clarify the use of a word by contrast with the exception of biblical ones almost all of webster s citations were taken from johnson s dictionary however webster significantly made full use of such citations to express his view on word usage which differs essentially from johnson s besides webster had a strong tendency to quote phrases and sentences from the bible for the same purpose
